As 2015 approaches and we transition from Missouri’s traditional MAP testing to the Smarter Balanced Assessments, many teachers and administrators have been asking for information. What is the implementation timeline? What kinds of items will be on the test? What do assessment items look like? How are the tests scored? How will technology be utilized? While not every detail is known, information is available.

First, an implementation time line:

SBAC assessments are made up of four item types: Selected-Response, Constructed-Response, Technology-Enhanced, and Performance Task. A description of those items follows.

Selected-Response Items (SR)

Traditionally known as Multiple Choice, selected-response items include a stimulus and stem followed by three to five options from which a student is directed to choose only one.

Constructed-Response Items (CR)

The main purpose of a constructed-response item is to address targets and claims that are of greater complexity. They ask students to develop answers without suggested answer choices.

Technology-enhanced Items/Tasks (TE)

Technology-enhanced items can provide evidence for ELA practices that could not be as reliably obtained from traditional SRs and CRs. Technology-enhanced items may stand alone or may be a tool used as part of the Performance Task and/or Constructed-Response items. Several TE template specifications have been designed for use in the ELA domain, including reordering text, selecting and changing text, selecting text, and selecting from drop-down menus.

Performance Tasks (PT)

The ELA Performance Tasks focus on reading, writing, speaking and listening, and research claims. They measure capacities such as depth of understanding, interpretive and analytical ability, basic recall, synthesis, and research. They may take place over time.
The Smarter Balanced summative assessments in ELA are designed to measure the full range of student abilities in the Common Core State Standards or Core Academic Standards (CAS) for language arts and literacy. Evidence will be gathered in support of four major claims: whether students can (1) Read Analytically, (2) Write Effectively, (3) Speak and Listen Purposefully, and (4) Conduct Research. Students will receive an overall ELA composite score. For the enhanced assessment, students will receive a score for each of the four major claim areas. (Speaking is not part of the summative assessment, but may be part of the interim assessment.)

Claim 1 – Students can read closely and analytically to comprehend a range of increasingly complex literary and informational texts.

Claim 2 – Students can produce effective and well-grounded writing for a range of purposes and audiences.

Claim 3 – Students can employ effective speaking and listening skills for a range of purposes and audiences.

Claim 4 – Students can engage in research/inquiry to investigate topics, and to analyze, integrate, and present information.

Glossary

Distracter: the incorrect response options to an SR item.

Distracter Analysis: the item writer’s analysis of the options or rationale for inclusion of specific options.

Item: the entire item, including the stimulus, question/prompt, answer/options, scoring criteria, and metadata.

Key: the correct response(s) to an item.

Options: the responses to a selected-response (SR) item from which the student selects one or more answers.

Scoring Rubric: the descriptions for each score point for an item/task that scores more than one point for a correct response.

Stem: the statement of the question or prompt to which the student responds.

Stimulus: the text, source (e.g., video clip), and/or graphic about which the item is written. The stimulus provides the context of the item/task to which the student must respond.

Task: similar to an item, yet typically more involved and usually associated with constructed-response, extended-response, and performance tasks.

Top-Score Response: one example of a complete and correct response to an item/task.

Stimulus Text:

Read the story “The Discontented Pendulum,” about the pieces of a clock including a pendulum, a swinging, weighted lever. Then answer the question that follows.

The Discontented Pendulum
By Jane Taylor

An old clock that had stood for fifty years in a farmer's kitchen, without giving its owner any cause of complaint, early one summer's morning, before the family was stirring, suddenly stopped. Upon this, the dial plate (if we may credit the fable) changed countenance with alarm; the hands made a vain effort to continue their course; the wheels remained motionless with surprise; the weights hung speechless; and each member felt disposed to lay the blame on the others. At length the dial instituted a formal inquiry as to the cause of the stagnation, when hands, wheels, weights, with one voice, protested their innocence.

But now a faint tick was heard below from the pendulum, who spoke thus: "I confess myself to be the sole cause of the present stoppage; and I am willing, for the general satisfaction, to assign my reasons. The truth is, that I am tired of ticking." Upon hearing this, the old clock became so enraged that it was upon the very point of striking. "Lazy wire!" exclaimed the dial plate, holding up its bands.

"Very good!" replied the pendulum; "it is vastly easy for you, Mistress Dial, who have always, as everybody knows, set yourself up above me,—it is vastly easy for you, I say, to accuse other people of laziness! you who have had nothing to do all your life but to stare people in the face, and to amuse yourself with watching all that goes on in the kitchen. Think, I beseech you, how you would like to be shut up for life in this dark closet, and to wag backward and forward year after year, as I do."

"As to that," said the dial, "is there not a window in your house on purpose for you to look through?" "For all that," resumed the pendulum, "it is very dark here; and, although there is a window, I dare not stop even for an instant to look out at it. Besides, I am really tired of my way of life; and, if you wish, I'll tell you how I took this disgust at my employment. I happened, this morning, to be calculating how many times I should have to tick in the course of only the next twenty-four hours; perhaps some one of you above there can give me the exact sum."

The minute hand, being quick at figures, presently replied, "Eighty-six thousand four hundred times." "Exactly so," replied the pendulum. "Well, I appeal to you all, if the very thought of this was not enough to fatigue anyone; and when I began to multiply the strokes of one day by those of months and years, really it was no wonder if I felt discouraged at the prospect. So, after a great deal of reasoning and hesitation, thinks I to myself, I'll stop."

The dial could scarcely keep its countenance during this harangue; but, resuming its gravity, thus replied: "Dear Mr. Pendulum, I am really astonished that such a useful, industrious person as yourself should have been seized by this sudden weariness. It is true, you have done a great deal of work in your time; so have we all, and are likely to do; which, although it may fatigue us to think of, the question is, whether it will fatigue us to do. Would you now do me the favor to give about half a dozen strokes to illustrate my argument?"

The pendulum complied, and ticked six times at its usual pace. "Now," resumed the dial, "may I be allowed to inquire if that exertion is at all fatiguing or disagreeable to you?" "Not in the least," replied the pendulum; "it is not of six strokes that I complain, nor of sixty, but of millions."

"Very good," replied the dial; "but recollect that, although you may think of a million of strokes in an instant, you are required to execute but one; and that, however often you may hereafter have to swing, a moment will always be given you to swing in." "That consideration staggers me, I confess," said the pendulum. "Then I hope," resumed the dial plate, "that we shall all return to our duty immediately; for the maids will be in bed if we stand idling thus."

Upon this, the weights, who had never been accused of light conduct, used all their influence in urging him to proceed; when, as if with one consent, the wheels began to turn, the hands began to move, the pendulum began to swing, and, to its credit, ticked as loud as ever; while a red beam of the rising sun, that streamed through a hole in the kitchen, shining full upon the dial plate, it brightened up as if nothing had been the matter.

When the farmer came down to breakfast that morning, upon looking at the clock, he declared that his watch had gained half an hour in the night.

Item Prompt:

During the course of this story, the pendulum undergoes a major transformation. What lesson does he learn, and how does the dial help him reach this new understanding? Use details from the story to support your response.

Scoring Notes:
Response may include but is not limited to: The pendulum learns to approach life one step at a time rather than becoming overwhelmed by the totality of his responsibilities. The dial teaches him this important lesson by asking the pendulum to break down his ticking responsibilities into a short series of six ticks and evaluate his reaction. When hearing that the pendulum considers these discrete tasks to be quite manageable, the dial reminds his friend that he can make his task simpler by focusing only on what’s immediately before him.

Score Point 2 Sample:
The pendulum learns that he needs to take life one step at a time and not worry about getting his whole job finished at a single stretch. The dial helps the pendulum understand this point by telling him to make a few ticks at a time. The pendulum can do this without feeling tired, and the dial reminds him that he just needs to focus on the single steps ahead in order to get the whole job done.
Score Point 1 Sample:
The pendulum learns that if he makes a just a few ticks at a time instead of worrying about ticking forever, then he will be able to get the job done without feeling exhausted.

Score Point 0 Sample:
The clock was old and lazy.

Language Features:
- Very complex: Relies entirely on figurative language (personification, mainly). The vocabulary and style are formal.

Knowledge Demands:
- Very complex: The parable form may be unfamiliar; students must consider everything that is said and done on more than one level.

Stimulus Text:

Read the following poem and then answer the question.

The following poem is based on a story from the Civil War. According to legend, when Major General Stonewall Jackson led Confederate troops through Frederick, Maryland, on September 6, 1862, Union supporter Barbara Frietchie waved the Union flag in protest.

Barbara Frietchie
by John Greenleaf Whittier

UP from the meadows rich with corn,
Clear in the cool September morn,

The clustered spires of Frederick stand
Green-walled by the hills of Maryland.

Round about them orchards sweep,
Apple and peach tree fruited deep,

Fair as the garden of the Lord
To the eyes of the famished rebel horde,

On that pleasant morn of the early fall
When Lee marched over the mountain-wall;

Over the mountains winding down,
Horse and foot, into Frederick town.

Forty flags with their silver stars,
Forty flags with their crimson bars,

Flapped in the morning wind: the sun
Of noon looked down, and saw not one.

Up rose old Barbara Frietchie then,
Bowed with her fourscore years and ten;

Bravest of all in Frederick town,
She took up the flag the men hauled down; 20

In her attic window the staff she set,
To show that one heart was loyal yet.

Up the street came the rebel tread,
Stonewall Jackson riding ahead

He glanced; the old flag met his sight 25

‘Fire!’ —out blazed the rifle-blast.

It shivered the window, pane and sash;
It rent the banner with seam and gash. 30

Quick, as it fell, from the broken staff
Dame Barbara snatched the silken scarf.

She leaned far out on the window-sill,
And shook it forth with a royal will.

‘Shoot, if you must, this old gray head,
But spare your country’s flag,’ she said. 35

A shade of sadness, a blush of shame,
Over the face of the leader came;

The nobler nature within him stirred
To life at that woman’s deed and word;

‘Who touches a hair of yon gray head
Dies like a dog! March on!’ he said.

All day long through Frederick street
Sounded the tread of marching feet:

All day long that free flag tost
Over the heads of the rebel host.

Ever its torn folds rose and fell
On the loyal winds that loved it well;

And through the hill-gaps sunset light
Shone over it with a warm good-night.

Barbara Frietchie’s work is o’er,
And the Rebel rides on his raids no more.

Honor to her! and let a tear
Fall, for her sake, on Stonewall’s bier.

Over Barbara Frietchie’s grave,
Flag of Freedom and Union, wave!

Peace and order and beauty draw
Round thy symbol of light and law;

And ever the stars above look down
On thy stars below in Frederick town!

Item Prompt:

The poet wrote this poem using couplets, paired rhyming lines with the same meter. Describe how this structure emphasizes what takes place in the poem. Support your answer using details from the poem.

Scoring Notes:

Response may include but is not limited to: The use of couplets creates a very distinct rhythm, like a march. In this poem it helps to reinforce the military theme of the poem and help the reader to feel the rhythmic steps of the soldiers marching. It also has a very uniform visual effect that is representative of lines of soldiers in uniform marching in unison.

Score Point 2 Sample:
The poet uses couplets, which are pairs of rhyming lines, to create a strong rhythm in the poem. There is a military theme in this poem, and the rhythm of the lines helps to create a marching quality that is similar to soldiers marching in battle. In addition, the ends of each pair of lines look similar because of the rhyming words and the lengths of the lines. This quality helps the reader think of soldiers marching in unison—all in the same uniform.

Score Point 1 Sample:
The poet’s use of couplets emphasizes what happens in the poem. The ending words in each pair of lines rhyme, and most of the lines are about the same length. These features create a rhythm to the poem that matches the military theme.

Score Point 0 Sample:
The poem is about the civil war.

Read the following passage and then answer the question.

An Old-Fashioned Girl
by Louisa May Alcott

Polly hoped the "dreadful boy" would not be present; but he was, and stared at her all dinner-time, in a most trying manner. Mr. Shaw, a busy-looking gentleman, said, "How do you do, my dear? Hope you'll enjoy yourself;" and then appeared to forget her entirely. Mrs. Shaw, a pale, nervous woman, greeted her little guest kindly, and took care that she wanted for nothing. Madam Shaw, a quiet old lady, with an imposing cap, exclaimed on seeing Polly, "Bless my heart! The image of her mother a sweet woman how is she, dear?" and kept peering at the newcomer over her glasses, till, between Madam and Tom, poor Polly lost her appetite.

Fanny chatted like a magpie, and Maud fidgeted, till Tom proposed to put her under the big dish-cover, which produced such an explosion, that the young lady was borne screaming away, by the much-enduring Katy. It was altogether an uncomfortable dinner, and Polly was very glad when it was over. They all went about their own affairs; and after doing the honors of the house, Fan was called to the dressmaker, leaving Polly to amuse herself in the great drawing-room.

Polly was glad to be alone for a few minutes; and, having examined all the pretty things about her, began to walk up and down over the soft, flowery carpet, humming to herself, as the daylight faded, and only the ruddy glow of the fire filled the room. Presently Madam came slowly in, and sat down in her arm-chair, saying, "That's a fine old tune; sing it to me, my dear. I haven't heard it this many a day." Polly didn't like to sing before strangers, for she had had no teaching but such as her busy mother could give her; but she had been taught the utmost respect for old people, and having no reason for refusing, she directly went to the piano, and did as she was bid.

"That's the sort of music it's a pleasure to hear. Sing some more, dear," said Madam, in her gentle way, when she had done.

Pleased with this praise, Polly sang away in a fresh little voice that went straight to the listener's heart and nestled there. The sweet old tunes that one is never tired of were all Polly's store; and her favorites were Scotch airs, such as, "Yellow-Haired Laddie," "Jock o' Hazeldean," "Down among the Heather," and "Birks of Aberfeldie." The more she sung, the better she did it; and when she wound up with "A Health to King Charlie," the room quite rung with the stirring music made by the big piano and the little maid.

"By George, that's a jolly tune! Sing it again, please," cried Tom's voice; and there was Tom's red head bobbing up over the high back of the chair where he had hidden himself.

It gave Polly quite a turn, for she thought no one was hearing her but the old lady dozing by the fire. "I can't sing anymore; I 'm tired," she said, and walked away to Madam in the other room. The red head vanished like a meteor, for Polly's tone had been decidedly cool.

The old lady put out her hand, and drawing Polly to her knee, looked into her face with such kind eyes, that Polly forgot the impressive cap, and smiled at her confidingly; for she saw that her simple music had pleased her listener, and she felt glad to know it.

"You mustn't mind my staring, dear," said Madam, softly pinching her rosy cheek. "I haven't seen a little girl for so long, it does my old eyes good to look at you."

Polly thought that a very odd speech, and couldn't help saying, "Aren't Fan and Maud little girls, too?"

"Oh, dear, no! Not what I call little girls. Fan has been a young lady this two years, and Maud is a spoiled baby. Your mother's a very sensible woman, my child."

"What a very queer old lady!" thought Polly; but she said "Yes'm" respectfully, and looked at the fire.

"You don't understand what I mean, do you?" asked Madam, still holding her by the chin.

"No 'm; not quite."

"Well, dear, I'll tell you. In my day, children of fourteen and fifteen didn't dress in the height of the fashion; go to parties, as nearly like those of grown people as it's possible to make them; lead idle, giddy, unhealthy lives, and get blas, at twenty. We were little folks till eighteen or so; worked and studied, dressed and played, like children; honored our parents; and our days were much longer in the land than now, it seems to, me."

The old lady appeared to forget Polly at the end of her speech; for she sat patting the plump little hand that lay in her own, and looking up at a faded picture of an old gentleman with a ruffled shirt and a queue.

"Was he your father, Madam?"

"Yes, dear; my honored father. I did up his frills to the day of his death; and the first money I ever earned was five dollars which he offered as a prize to whichever of his six girls would lay the handsomest darn in his silk stockings."

"How proud you must have been!" cried Polly, leaning on the old lady's knee with an interested face.

"Yes, and we all learned to make bread, and cook, and wore little chintz gowns, and were as gay and hearty as kittens. All lived to be grandmothers and fathers; and I'm the last, seventy, next birthday, my dear, and not worn out yet; though daughter Shaw is an invalid at forty."

"That's the way I was brought up, and that's why Fan calls me old-fashioned, I suppose. Tell more about your papa, please; I like it," said Polly.

"Say 'father.' We never called him papa; and if one of my brothers had addressed him as 'governor,' as boys do now, I really think he'd have him cut off with a shilling."

Response may include but is not limited to: The first simile sets up a clear contrast between Fanny’s nonstop chattering and Polly’s respectful listening. The second simile contrasts Tom’s rushed exit from the room with Polly’s more measured and thoughtful behavior. Both similes show that Polly does not care for Fanny and Tom and prefers to spend time with Madam Shaw.

<th>Score Point 3 Sample:</th>
<th>When the narrator compares Fanny to a magpie, which is a noisy bird, it shows that Fanny likes to talk a lot and probably doesn’t give other people a chance to say much. Polly is described as being much quieter and low-key. The comparison of Tom to a meteor shows that he’s very fast-moving and maybe knocks things around a little. The narrator describes Polly as a thoughtful and more careful person, someone who probably wouldn’t run around like Tom. Recommended Placement for Assessment: Grade 9

Though the quantitative measures suggest a lower grade placement, the language features and the fact that it is, essentially, focused on characterization, suggest that the appropriate placement for this passage is grade 9. Based on these sets of measures, this passage is recommended for assessment at grade 9.

Qualitative Measures

Meaning/Purpose:
Moderately complex: Implied, but fairly straightforward literary text. After the first paragraphs, the passage becomes narrowly focused on the interaction between Polly and Madam.

Text Structure:
Slightly complex: Events proceed in a predictable, linear fashion.

Language Features:
Very complex: Language is somewhat archaic, with multiple expressions that will require interpretation (or reading over of) by the reader.

Knowledge Demands:
Moderately complex: Most of the passage is devoted to conversation, rather than action or events, so requires more from the reader than a simple narrative does. The significance of the passage is in the characterization, which is a relatively sophisticated task to interpret.

Stimuli/Passage(s): NASA Gives Public New Internet Tool To Explore The Solar System

Stimuli/Text Complexity: The Lexile and F-K are fairly high, most likely due to the vocabulary demands. However the information is fairly straightforward and students should be able to navigate the parts of the passage that have less familiar information. There is nothing terribly abstract about the ideas. Based on these sets of measures, this passage is recommended for assessment at grade 9.

Please see text complexity worksheet attached.

Notes:

How this task contributes to the sufficient evidence for this claim:
To complete this task, students must determine the author’s purpose and analyze how he/she constructs the passage to reinforce the purpose.

Target-specific attributes (e.g., accessibility issues):
This task requires students to enter text using a keyboard.

Stimulus Text:

Read the following text and then answer the question.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) leads research in space exploration and aeronautics.

NASA Gives Public New Internet Tool To Explore The Solar System
PASADENA, Calif. -- NASA is giving the public the power to journey through the solar system using a new interactive Web-based tool.

The "Eyes on the Solar System" interface combines video game technology and NASA data to create an environment for users to ride along with agency spacecraft and explore the cosmos. Screen graphics and information such as planet locations and spacecraft maneuvers use actual space mission data.

"This is the first time the public has been able to see the entire solar system and our missions moving together in real-time," said Jim Green, director of NASA's Planetary Science Division at the agency's Headquarters in Washington. "It demonstrates NASA's continued commitment to share our science with everyone."

The virtual environment uses the Unity game engine to display models of planets, moons, asteroids, comets and spacecraft as they move through our solar system. With keyboard and mouse controls, users cruise through space to explore anything that catches their interest. A free browser plug-in, available at the site, is required to run the Web application.

"You are now free to move about the solar system," said Blaine Baggett, executive manager in the Office of Communication and Education at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) in Pasadena, Calif. "See what NASA's spacecraft see -- and where they are right now -- all without leaving your computer."

Users may experience missions in real-time, and "Eyes on the Solar System" also allows them to travel through time. The tool is populated with NASA data dating back to 1950 and projected to 2050.

The playback rate can be sped up or slowed down. When NASA's Juno spacecraft launched on Aug. 5, 2011, users could look ahead to see the mission's five-year journey to Jupiter in a matter of seconds.

Point of view can be switched from faraway to close-up to right "on board" spacecraft. Location, motion and appearance are based on predicted and reconstructed mission data. Dozens of controls on a series of pop-up menus allow users to fully customize what they see, and video and audio tutorials explain how to use the tool's many options. Users may choose from 2-D or 3-D modes, with the latter simply requiring a pair of red-cyan glasses to see.

"By basing our visualization primarily on mission data, this tool will help both NASA and the public better understand complex space science missions," said Kevin Hussey, manager of Visualization Technology Applications and Development at JPL, whose team developed "Eyes on the Solar System."

"Eyes on the Solar System" is in beta release. It has been demonstrated at science conferences, in classrooms and at the 2011 South by Southwest Interactive Conference in Austin, Texas.

Designers are updating "Eyes on the Solar System" to include NASA science missions launching during the coming months, including GRAIL to the moon and the Mars Science Laboratory Curiosity rover.

Scoring Notes:

Response may include but is not limited to: The primary purpose of this press release is to notify the public about the launch of a new technology interface and to encourage people to try it once it is released. The author uses evocative verbs such as “journey,” “explore,” and “cruise” to engage and interest readers. The author also includes a quote by Blaine Baggett that is based on a familiar and reassuring statement heard on commercial airplanes. In addressing the second part of his quote directly to the readers (“See what NASA’s spacecraft see…”), the speaker creates a feeling of immediacy and energy and appeals to their sense of adventure. The author uses specific word choice to describe functionality to clarify for the reader (e.g. “2-D” “3-D”) technology tool and to encourage people to use it. The author uses powerful words that make the reader feel eager about trying out the new interface. For example, he uses verbs such as “journey,” “cruise,” and “explore” to create a sense of adventure. He also puts in a quote that sounds similar to “You are now free to move about the cabin,” which is a statement that is often heard on airplanes. Once passengers hear it, they feel safe and reassured that everything is going well, and readers will also feel comfortable with the new technology. Finally, the quote by Blaine Baggett addresses the readers directly (“See what NASA’s spacecraft see”), which helps people feel more interested and engaged in what is being described in the press release. They might be more willing to try out the new technology.

Score Point 3 Sample:
The press release is meant to tell the public about NASA’s new technology tool and encourage them to try it out. In order to accomplish this goal, the author uses strong and descriptive words in the text to interest the readers (for example, “cruise,” “journey,” and “explore”). These words are action verbs that help the readers feel as if they’re on a space trip. The author also uses direct quotations from experts that show some interesting features of the tool and some of its benefits. Quotes from experts can convince readers that this is a worthy technology to try out.

Score Point 2 Sample:
The author of the press release is announcing to the public the release of a new technology tool and is trying to encourage people to try it out. The writer uses language and other strategies to achieve his goal. For example, he uses descriptive verbs when talking about how users can experience space travel. These action verbs help the readers become excited about going on a space adventure. Also, the author uses quotations from experts to convince readers to try out the technology tool.

Score Point 1 Sample:
The author’s point in writing the press release is to announce the launch of NASA’s new technology tool. He uses language and other strategies to encourage readers to try out the new tool. The language in the text is more casual than a scientific document and is written in such a way to interest its readers. For example, the author uses quotes from experts in the press release.

Score Point 0 Sample:
The author writes about NASA. It is an interesting text.

Article 1: Electric Vehicles
by the US Department of Energy
http://www.fueleconomy.gov/feg/evtech.shtml

Electric vehicles (EVs) are propelled by an electric motor (or motors) powered by rechargeable battery packs. Electric motors have several advantages over internal combustion engines (ICEs):

• Energy efficient. Electric motors convert 75% of the chemical energy from the batteries to power the wheels—internal combustion engines (ICEs) only convert 20% of the energy stored in gasoline.

• Environmentally friendly. EVs emit no tailpipe pollutants, although the power plant producing the electricity may emit them. Electricity from nuclear-, hydro-, solar-, or wind-powered plants causes no air pollutants.

• Performance benefits. Electric motors provide quiet, smooth operation and stronger acceleration and require less maintenance than ICEs.

EVs face significant battery-related challenges:

• Driving range. Most EVs can only go about 100–200 miles before recharging—gasoline vehicles can go over 300 miles before refueling.

• Recharge time. Fully recharging the battery pack can take 4 to 8 hours. Even a "quick charge" to 80% capacity can take 30 min.

• Battery cost: The large battery packs are expensive and may need to be replaced one or more times.

• Bulk & weight: Battery packs are heavy and take up considerable vehicle space. However, researchers are working on improved battery technologies to increase driving range and decrease recharging time, weight, and cost. These factors will ultimately determine the future of EVs.

Teacher Directions:
Students are given the texts, research, and any additional information about the speech.

Session 1 (35 minutes)
- Initiate the online testing session.
- Alert the students when 15 minutes have elapsed.
- Alert the students when there are 5 minutes remaining in the part 1.

Stretch Break

Session 2 (85 minutes)
- Initiate the testing part 2.
- Allow students to access the sources and their answers to the constructed response questions presented in part 1. They will not be allowed to change their answers.
- Alert the students when 30 minutes have elapsed.
- After students have been working for 65 minutes, alert them that there are 10 minutes left.
• Close the testing session.
• Direct students to deliver their presentations.

Teacher preparation / Resource requirements
The teacher should assure that sufficient blank paper and writing utensils are available for student note taking. Teacher should conduct standard preparation, registration, etc., for computer-based testing. The testing software will include access to spell check.

The Performance Task will take 120 minutes in one session.

Pre-Task Activity:
There are no specific pre-task activities to be conducted.

Student Directions:
Part 1 (35 minutes)

Your assignment:
You will read an article, watch 2 videos, review a packet of research materials, and answer some questions about these sources. Then prepare and deliver an oral presentation about electric cars.

Steps you will be following:
In order to plan your presentation you will do the following:
1. Read an article
2. Watch 2 videos
3. Review three charts
4. Answer three questions about the articles, the video, and the charts

2. Analyze how the information in the charts supports and enhances the ideas in the article and videos. Use specific details from sources to support your answer.

3. Analyze how the tone of “Revenge of the Electric Car” differs from the tone of “Electric Cars Face Issues in the US.” Use details from both videos to support your
Part 2 (85 minutes)
You now have 85 minutes to prepare an oral presentation. You may refer back to the sources you read in part 1. Now read your assignment and the information about how your presentation will be scored, then begin your work.

Your Assignment:
Plan and deliver a presentation on the future of electric cars in the United States. Support your analysis with details from what you have read and viewed.

How your speech will be scored: The people scoring your speech will be assigning scores for

1. Focus – how well your speech clearly introduces and communicates your ideas

2. Organization – how well your ideas flow from the opening to the conclusion and how well you stay on topic throughout the speech

3. Elaboration of Evidence – how well you use sources, facts, and details as evidence

4. Language and Vocabulary – how well you effectively express ideas using precise language that is appropriate for your audience and purpose

5. Presentation – how well your speech is presented, including eye contact, pronunciation, and awareness of audience and the use of visual/graphics/audio enhancements appropriate to your message

Now begin work on your presentation. Manage your time carefully so that you can:

• plan your presentation
• prepare your presentation

Task Notes:

Task Overview (120 total minutes):

Title: Author Study—Emily Dickinson

Part 1 (35 minutes): Ultimately tasked with writing an informational essay on connections between Emily Dickinson’s life and her poetry, students will read two poems by Dickinson and three articles about the poet, taking notes on these sources. They will then respond to three constructed-response questions, each addressing the research skills of analyzing and evaluating information.

Part 2 (85 minutes): Students work individually to compose full-length informational essays on the connection between Dickinson’s life and poetry, referring to their notes as needed. Prior to composing their full-length essays, students will be allowed access to the articles and poems they viewed in the beginning. Pre-writing, drafting, and revising will be involved.

Scorable Products: Student responses to the constructed-response questions and the essay will be scored.

Teacher preparation / Resource requirements:
The teacher should ensure that sufficient blank paper and writing utensils are available for student note-taking. Teacher should conduct standard preparation, registration, etc., for computer-based testing. The testing software will include access to spell check but not to grammar check.

Teacher Directions:

Students are given the texts, research, and any additional information about the essay.

  - Initiate the testing part 2.
Student Directions:
Part 1 (35 minutes)

Your assignment:
You will read three articles about the nineteenth-century poet Emily Dickinson and two poems written by Dickinson, taking notes on all of these sources, and then write an informational essay about the relationship between the poet’s life and her poems.

Steps you will be following:
In order to plan and compose your essay, you will do all of the following:
1. Read the two poems and the three articles.
2. Answer three questions about the sources.
3. Plan and write your essay.

Directions for beginning:
You will now read two poems and three articles. Take notes because you may want to refer to your notes while writing your essay. You can refer to any of the sources as often as you like.

(poem 1)
Questions
Use the remaining time to answer the questions below. Your answers to these questions will be scored. Also, they will help you think about the sources you’ve read, which should help you write your essay. You may click on the appropriate buttons to refer to the sources when you think it would be helpful. You may also refer to your notes. Answer the questions in the spaces provided below them.

1. What does your research reveal about Dickinson’s interest in botany? Use details from the articles to support your answer.

2. How do poems 1 and 2 support or contradict the information in the articles? Support your answer with details from the poems and articles.

3. Explain why both the articles and the poems are necessary for developing a better understanding of Dickinson. Use details from the articles and the poems to support your answer.

Part 2 (85 minutes)
You will now have 85 minutes to review your notes and sources, and plan, draft, and revise your essay. You may also refer to the answers you wrote to the questions in part 1, but you cannot change those answers. Now read your assignment and the information about how your essay will be scored, and then begin your work.

Your Assignment
In order to provide some context to an author’s work, it can be helpful to also read about his or her life and experiences. Write an informational essay in which you analyze and explain how Emily Dickinson’s life experiences influenced her poetry. Support your controlling idea with evidence and elaboration from what you have read.

How your essay will be scored: The people scoring your essay will be assigning scores for

1. Statement of Purpose/Focus—how well you clearly state and maintain your controlling idea or main idea
2. Organization—how well the ideas progress from the introduction to the conclusion using effective transitions and how well you stay on topic throughout the essay
3. Elaboration of Evidence—how well you provide evidence from sources about your topic and elaborate with specific information
4. Language and Vocabulary—how well you effectively express ideas using precise language that is appropriate for your audience and purpose
5. Conventions—how well you follow the rules of grammar, usage, and mechanics (spelling, punctuation, capitalization, etc.)

Now begin work on your essay. Manage your time carefully so that you can:

- plan your essay
- write your essay
- revise and edit for a final draft

Word-processing tools and spell check are available to you.

Scoring Notes:
Responses may include but are not limited to:

- Articles show that Dickinson loved botany. She liked to garden and took science courses at school. Dickinson particularly liked studying flowers. Her poems and letters often describe flowers. She collected flowers in an herbarium.

Sample 2-point Response:
The three articles provide several examples that show Dickinson was passionate about botany. As a young woman, she spent a great deal of time working in her garden. In school she took many science courses including botany and natural history and she was interested in studying and describing flowers. Her poems and letters included descriptions of flowers. Dickinson collected about 500 flowers in an album and identified and labeled their scientific names.

Scoring Notes:
Responses may include but are not limited to:

- Poem 1 shows the threat of science to the “life” of Nature and supports the information in the articles.
- Dickinson rebelled against certain scientific traditions by mislabeling and misgrouping flowers in her herbarium.
- Poem 2 describes artificial limits and labels that humans put on Nature. This poem supports the articles’ discussion of Dickinson’s shift from traditional scientific structures to a more personal connection with Nature.

Sample 2-point Response:
Poem 1 is about how humans cannot control nature. Surgeons are performing an operation and they need to be very careful when doing it but no matter how much they plan, something can always go wrong. The theme of Dickinson’s poem supports the research found in the articles. Although she loved studying flowers, Dickinson rebelled against some of the scientific traditions she was being taught in school. For example, according to article 2, she mislabeled and misgrouped many of the flowers in her herbarium. Poem 2 makes fun of the “pedigree of honey,” which can symbolize the artificial limits that humans use to describe Nature. This poem supports the articles’ descriptions of Dickinson’s movement away from science to a more personal relationship with Nature.

Scoring Notes:
Responses may include but are not limited to:
The articles and poems together provide a more complete understanding of Dickinson’s relationship to Nature.
The articles provide a biographical background and context about Dickinson’s education in science, and botany in particular. Articles 2 and 3 describe her herbarium and portray her as detailed, meticulous, and rebellious. An example is that she places her flowers according to her own rules and doesn’t follow standard scientific guidelines.
The poems provide insights to the reader about Dickinson’s voice and style in describing her feelings about science’s relationship to Nature. They help the reader understand Dickinson’s priorities in observing rather than disturbing or dissecting Nature.

Sample 2-point Response:
From the articles and the poems, one can develop a more complete understanding of Dickinson’s relationship with Nature. The research found in the articles helps one understand what a strong educational background in botany and science Dickinson had. The descriptions of her herbarium in Articles 2 and 3 give a picture of someone who is very detail-oriented but also a little rebellious. For example, Dickinson places flowers that normally would be grouped together in different sections of her album showing that she likes to create her own rules. Her poems her own voice to the descriptions that are included in the articles. For example, they show how Dickinson worries about science disturbing Nature when she says surgeons could harm “Life!”

In the short story—The character does not like her virtual school; She thinks it is boring; She doesn’t like her computer “teacher”; She wishes she could go to a school from the past and be with other students and learn from a live person.
In the video—The family chose to attend a virtual school after attending traditional schools; It was a difficult choice and not for everyone; They are happy with their decision; The curriculum is very challenging; The older daughter misses her friends but likes her new school; It makes her a better student; She has fewer distractions.

Sample 2-point Response:
The main character in the short story does not enjoy attending a virtual school. She thinks it is boring and impersonal and especially dislikes having to insert her homework papers into a special slot for grading. When her friend finds a book about traditional schools she thinks it would be a lot more fun and interesting to attend school with other children and have a real person as a teacher. The family in the video chose to have their children attend a virtual school instead of a traditional school, and they like it much better. The older girl thinks the curriculum is harder and will help her get into college. She misses her friends but thinks not having them around makes her more focused and a better student.

Not all states have online school options.
States that do have seen a dramatic increase in the number of online schools and students attending those schools.
Students attending online schools are still a small percentage of the total population of students.
Popularity is increasing, but use is not widespread.
Sample 2-point Response:
The statistics from the report suggest that while the number of students attending online schools has increased dramatically, they still represent a small percentage of the total population of students. For example, Arizona has the highest percentage, with 3.89% of all students in the state enrolled in online schools. ### C2 T7 Performance Task, Draft

Task Overview (120 total minutes):

Title: Graffiti

Part 1 (35 minutes): Ultimately tasked with writing an argumentative essay on graffiti, students will read two articles and view a video and 4 photographs, taking notes on these sources. They will then respond to three constructed-response questions, each addressing the research skills of analyzing and evaluating information.

Part 2 (85 minutes): Finally, students will work individually to compose full-length argumentative essays on graffiti, referring to their notes as needed. Prior to composing their full-length essays, students will receive a research packet of additional information. Pre-writing, drafting, and revising will be involved.

Scorable Products: Student responses to the constructed-response questions and the essay will be scored.

Teacher preparation / Resource requirements

The teacher should assure that sufficient blank paper and writing utensils are available for student note-taking. Teacher should conduct standard preparation, registration, etc., for computer-based testing. The testing software will include access to spell check, but not to grammar check.
Teacher Directions:
Students are given the texts, research, and any additional information about the essay.

Part 1 (35 minutes)
- Initiate the online testing session.
- Alert the students when 15 minutes have elapsed.
- Alert the students when there are 5 minutes remaining in part 1.

Stretch Break

Part 2 (85 minutes)
- Initiate the testing part 2.
- Allow students to access the additional research materials.
- Allow students to access the sources and their answers to the constructed response questions presented in part 1. They will not be allowed to change their answers.
- Once 20 minutes have elapsed, suggest students begin writing their essays.
- Alert the students when 45 minutes have elapsed.
- After students have been writing for 45 minutes, alert them that there are 20 minutes remaining and suggest they begin revising their essays.
- Alert the students when there are 10 minutes remaining in the session.
- Close the testing session.

Pre-Task Activity:
There are no specific pre-task activities to be conducted.

Time Requirements: The Performance Task will take 120 minutes in one session.

Student Directions:

Part 1 (35 minutes)

Your assignment:
You will read several articles and view a video and several photographs and then write an argumentative essay about graffiti.

Steps you will be following:
In order to plan and compose your essay, you will do all of the following:
1. Read two articles, watch a video, and view four photographs.
2. Answer three questions about the sources.
3. Plan and write your essay.
Directions for beginning:
You will now read the sources and watch a video. Take notes because you may want to refer back to your notes while writing your essay. You can refer back to any of the sources as often as you like.

(article 1)
(video 1)
(article 2)
(photos 1–4)

Questions:
Use the remaining time to answer the questions below. Your answers to these questions will be scored. Also, they will help you think about the sources you’ve read and viewed, which should help you write your essay. You may click on the appropriate buttons to refer back to the sources when you think it would be helpful. You may also refer to your notes. Answer the questions in the spaces provided below them.

1. The video, “Graffiti as an Art Form,” suggests that graffiti has important benefits to the artist and audience. What evidence does it provide to support this conclusion? Use details from the video to support your answer.

2. What points about graffiti do the video, “Graffiti as an Art Form,” and the article “Is Graffiti Art?” discuss that is not included in the article “City Should Crack Down on Graffiti”? Why is this additional information important when making an informed decision about graffiti? Support your answer with details from the articles and video.

3. How do photographs 3 and 4 help the article “City Should Crack Down on Graffiti” in presenting a particular viewpoint on graffiti? Use details from the photographs and article to support your answer.
Part 2 (85 minutes)
You will now have 85 minutes to review your notes and sources, and plan, draft, and revise your essay. You may also refer to the answers you wrote to the questions in part 1, but you cannot change those answers. Now read your assignment and the information about how your essay will be scored, then begin your work.

Your Assignment:
An art gallery in your town is planning to place several examples of graffiti on display. Many people in your community who support or oppose the exhibit are writing to the gallery’s board of managers. Write an argumentative essay explaining why you agree or disagree with the idea of displaying graffiti in museum and gallery exhibits. Support your claim with details from what you have read and viewed.

How your essay will be scored: The people scoring your essay will be assigning scores for:

1. Statement of purpose/focus—how well you clearly state your claim on the topic, maintain your focus, and address the alternate and opposing claims
2. Organization—how well your ideas logically flow from the introduction to conclusion using effective transitions, and how well you stay on topic throughout the essay
3. Elaboration of evidence—how well you provide evidence from sources about your opinions and elaborate with specific information
4. Language and Vocabulary—how well you effectively express ideas using precise language that is appropriate for your audience and purpose
5. Conventions—how well you follow the rules of usage, punctuation, capitalization, and spelling

Now begin work on your essay. Manage your time carefully so that you can:
1. plan your essay
2. write your essay
3. revise and edit for a final draft

Word-processing tools and spell check are available to you.

Stimulus Text:

Read the following passage and then answer the question.

An Old-Fashioned Girl

by Louisa May Alcott

Polly hoped the "dreadful boy" would not be present; but he was, and stared at her all dinner-time, in a most trying manner. Mr. Shaw, a busy-looking gentleman, said, "How do you do, my dear? Hope you’ll enjoy yourself;" and then appeared to forget her entirely. Mrs. Shaw, a pale, nervous woman, greeted her... little guest kindly, and took care that she wanted for nothing. Madam Shaw, a quiet old lady, with an imposing cap, exclaimed on seeing Polly, "Bless my heart! The image of her mother a sweet woman how is she, dear?" and kept peering at the new-comer over her glasses, till, between Madam and Tom, poor Polly lost her appetite.

Fanny chatted like a magpie, and Maud fidgeted, till Tom proposed to put her under the big dish-cover, which produced such an explosion, that the young lady was borne screaming away, by the much-enduring Katy. It was altogether an uncomfortable dinner, and Polly was very glad when it was over. They all went about their own affairs; and after doing the honors of the house, Fan was called to the dressmaker, leaving Polly to amuse herself in the great drawing-room.

Polly was glad to be alone for a few minutes; and, having examined all the pretty things about her, began to walk up and down over the soft, flowery carpet, humming to herself, as the daylight faded, and only the ruddy glow of the fire filled the room. Presently Madam came slowly in, and sat down in her arm-chair, saying, "That's a fine old tune; sing it to me, my dear. I haven't heard it this many a day." Polly didn't like to sing before strangers, for she had had no teaching but such as her busy mother could give her; but she had been taught the utmost respect for old people, and having no reason for refusing, she directly went to the piano, and did as she was bid.

"That's the sort of music it's a pleasure to hear. Sing some more, dear," said Madam, in her gentle way, when she had done.

Pleased with this praise, Polly sang away in a fresh little voice, that went straight to the listener's heart and nestled there. The sweet old tunes that one is never tired of were all Polly's store; and her favorites were Scotch airs, such as, "Yellow-Haired Laddie," "Jock o' Hazeldean," "Down among the Heather," and "Birks of Aberfeldie." The more she sung, the better she did it; and when she wound up with "A Health to King Charlie," the room quite rung with the stirring music made by the big piano and the little maid.

"By George, that's a jolly tune! Sing it again, please," cried Tom's voice; and there was Tom's red head bobbing up over the high back of the chair where he had hidden himself.

It gave Polly quite a turn, for she thought no one was hearing her but the old lady dozing by the fire. "I can't sing any more; I'm tired," she said, and walked away to Madam in the other room. The red head vanished like a meteor, for Polly's tone had been decidedly cool.

The old lady put out her hand, and drawing Polly to her knee, looked into her face with such kind eyes, that Polly forgot the impressive cap, and smiled at her confidingly; for she saw that her simple music had pleased her listener, and she felt glad to know it.

"You mustn't mind my staring, dear," said Madam, softly pinching her rosy cheek. "I haven't seen a little girl for so long, it does my old eyes good to look at you."

Polly thought that a very odd speech, and couldn't help saying, "Aren't Fan and Maud little girls, too?"

"Oh, dear, no! Not what I call little girls. Fan has been a young lady this two years, and Maud is a spoiled baby. Your mother's a very sensible woman, my child."

"What a very queer old lady!" thought Polly; but she said "Yes 'm" respectfully, and looked at the fire.

"You don't understand what I mean, do you?" asked Madam, still holding her by the chin.

"No'm; not quite."

"Well, dear, I'll tell you. In my day, children of fourteen and fifteen didn't dress in the height of the fashion; go to parties, as nearly like those of grown people as it's possible to make them; lead idle, giddy, unhealthy lives, and get blas, at twenty. We were little folks till eighteen or so; worked and studied, dressed and played, like children; honored our parents; and our days were much longer in the land than now, it seems to me."

The old lady appeared to forget Polly at the end of her speech; for she sat patting the plump little hand that lay in her own, and looking up at a faded picture of an old gentleman with a ruffled shirt and a queue.

"Was he your father, Madam?"

"Yes, dear; my honored father. I did up his frills to the day of his death; and the first money I ever earned was five dollars which he offered as a prize to whichever of his six girls would lay the handsomest darn in his silk stockings."

"How proud you must have been!" cried Polly, leaning on the old lady's knee with an interested face.

"Yes, and we all learned to make bread, and cook, and wore little chintz gowns, and were as gay and hearty as kittens. All lived to be grandmothers and fathers; and I'm the last, seventy, next birthday, my dear, and not worn out yet; though daughter Shaw is an invalid.

"That's the way I was brought up, and that's why Fan calls me old-fashioned, I suppose. Tell more about your papa, please; I like it," said Polly.

"Say 'father.' We never called him papa; and if one of my brothers had addressed him as 'governor,' as boys do now, I really think he'd have him cut off with a shilling."
does the other children. Click on the highlighted sentence from the story that provides the best evidence that Polly shares this feeling.

Options:

[See highlighted sentences in passage.]

Distractor Analysis:

A. Madam Shaw, a quiet old lady, with an imposing cap, exclaimed on seeing Polly, "Bless my heart! The image of her mother a sweet woman how is she, dear?" and kept peering at the new-comer over her glasses, till, between Madam and Tom, poor Polly lost her appetite. : While this sentence shows Madam Shaw's initial warmth toward Polly, it also demonstrates Polly's initial level of anxiety around her.

B. Polly didn't like to sing before strangers, for she had had no teaching but such as her busy mother could give her; but she had been taught the utmost respect for old people, and having no reason for refusing, she directly went to the piano, and did as she was bid. : While this sentence shows Polly's respect for Madam Shaw, it doesn't show that she feels a strong connection to her.

C. "I can't sing any more; I 'm tired," she said, and walked away to Madam in the other room. : Although this sentence demonstrates Polly preferring to be with Madam Shaw rather than Tom, it doesn't show that she feels a strong connection to her.

D. KEY: "How proud you must have been!" cried Polly, leaning on the old lady's knee with an interested face. : The fact that Polly feels comfortable enough to lean on Madam Shaw after her initial formality reflects Polly's growing warmth and sense of connection with the older woman.

Based on these sets of measures, this passage is recommended for assessment at grade 9.

Qualitative Measures

Meaning/Purpose:
- Moderately complex: Implied, but fairly straightforward literary text. After the first paragraphs, the passage becomes narrowly focused on the interaction between Polly and Madam.

Text Structure:
- Slightly complex: Events proceed in a predictable, linear fashion.

Language Features:
- Very complex: Language is somewhat archaic, with multiple expressions that will require interpretation (or reading over of) by the reader.

Knowledge Demands:
- Moderately complex: Most of the passage is devoted to conversation, rather than action or events, so requires more from the reader than a simple narrative does. The significance of the passage is in the characterization, which is a relatively sophisticated task to interpret.

Quantitative Measures

Common Core State Standards Appendix A Complexity Band Level (if applicable):

- Lexile or Other Quantitative Measure of the Text:
  - Lexile: 910L; grades 4-5
  - Flesch-Kincaid: 5.2

Considerations for Passage Selection

Passage selection should be based on the ELA Content Specifications targets and the cognitive demands of the assessment tasks.

Potential Challenges a Text May Pose:

- Accessibility
- Sentence and text structures
- Archaic language, slang, idioms, or other language challenges

Stimulus Text:

Read an excerpt from “The Discontented Pendulum” and then answer the question.

The Discontented Pendulum
By Jane Taylor
An old clock that had stood for fifty years in a farmer's kitchen, without giving its owner any cause of complaint, early one summer's morning, before the family was stirring, suddenly stopped. Upon this, the dial plate (if we may credit the fable) changed countenance with alarm; the hands made a vain effort to continue their course; the wheels remained motionless with surprise; the weights hung speechless; and each member felt disposed to lay the blame on the others.

...The dial could scarcely keep its countenance during this harangue; but, resuming its gravity, thus replied: "Dear Mr. Pendulum, I am really astonished that such a useful, industrious person as yourself should have been seized by this sudden weariness. It is true, you have done a great deal of work in your time; so have we all, and are likely to do; which, although it may fatigue us to think of, the question is, whether it will fatigue us to do. Would you now do me the favor to give about half a dozen strokes to illustrate my argument?"

Item Stem:

Read this dictionary entry for the word “countenance.”

Countenance (n) 1. calm expression. 2. moral support. 3. behavior. 4. face.

Which definition best applies to the way the word “countenance” is used in the highlighted sentences above?

A. calm expression

B. moral support

C. behavior

D. face
Distractor Analysis:

A. KEY—calm expression: In both paragraphs, the dial’s composure and calmness is tested by challenges resulting from the pendulum’s refusal to operate.

B. moral support: The dial’s interactions with the other clock parts (including the pendulum) reflect his own concern rather than support and encouragement of others.

C. behavior: While the context of the first paragraph might support this definition, the usage in the second paragraph does not. In the latter, the dial exhibits more specific concern than is described by the general nature of “behavior.”

D. face: While the dial’s calm facial expression changes as a result of the challenges posed by the pendulum’s behavior, its actual face does not. In particular, the context of the second paragraph does not support this definition.

Recommended Placement for Assessment: Grade 9

While the qualitative measures are slightly lower, the levels of meaning embedded in this parable suggest that a higher grade level assignment is appropriate. Based on these sets of measures, this passage is recommended for assessment at grade 9.

Qualitative Measures

Meaning/Purpose:

Very complex: The parable form may not be as familiar as some to students; the theme is revealed gradually over the course of the text.

Text Structure:

Moderately complex: The piece requires readers to see human characteristics in the parts of a clock and to consider the allegorical meaning.

Language Features:

Very complex: Relies entirely on figurative language (personification, mainly). The vocabulary and style are formal.

Knowledge Demands:

Very complex: The parable form may be unfamiliar; students must consider everything that is said and done on more than one level.

Stimulus Text:

Read the following passage and then answer the question.

The following poem is based on a story from the Civil War. According to legend, when Major General Stonewall Jackson led Confederate troops through Frederick, Maryland, on September 6, 1862, Union supporter Barbara Frietchie waved the Union flag in protest.
Barbara Frietchie
_by John Greenleaf Whittier_

UP from the meadows rich with corn,
Clear in the cool September morn,

The clustered spires of Frederick stand
Green-walled by the hills of Maryland.

Round about them orchards sweep,
  Apple and peach tree fruited deep,

Fair as the garden of the Lord
To the eyes of the famished rebel horde,

On that pleasant morn of the early fall
When Lee marched over the mountain-wall;

Over the mountains winding down,
Horse and foot, into Frederick town.

Forty flags with their silver stars,
Forty flags with their crimson bars,

Flapped in the morning wind: the sun
Of noon looked down, and saw not one.

Up rose old Barbara Frietchie then,
Bowed with her fourscore years and ten;

Bravest of all in Frederick town,
She took up the flag the men hauled down;

In her attic window the staff she set,
To show that one heart was loyal yet.

Up the street came the rebel tread,
Stonewall Jackson riding ahead

He glanced; the old flag met his sight 25

‘Halt!’ –the dust-brown ranks stood fast.
‘Fire!’ –out blazed the rifle-blast.

It shivered the window, pane and sash;
It rent the banner with seam and gash. 30

Quick, as it fell, from the broken staff
Dame Barbara snatched the silken scarf.

She leaned far out on the window-sill,
And shook it forth with a royal will.

‘Shoot, if you must, this old gray head,
But spare your country’s flag,’ she said. 35

A shade of sadness, a blush of shame,
Over the face of the leader came;

The nobler nature within him stirred
To life at that woman’s deed and word; 40

‘Who touches a hair of yon gray head
Dies like a dog! March on!’ he said.

All day long through Frederick street
Sounded the tread of marching feet:

All day long that free flag tost
Over the heads of the rebel host. 45

Ever its torn folds rose and fell
On the loyal winds that loved it well;
And through the hill-gaps sunset light
Shone over it with a warm good-night. 50

Barbara Frietchie’s work is o’er,
And the Rebel rides on his raids no more.

Honor to her! and let a tear
Fall, for her sake, on Stonewall’s bier.

Over Barbara Frietchie’s grave, 55
Flag of Freedom and Union, wave!

Peace and order and beauty draw
Round thy symbol of light and law;

And ever the stars above look down
On thy stars below in Frederick town! 60

Item Stem:

Which words from the poem are intended to emphasize Barbara Frietchie’s advanced age?

Options:

A. rose (line 17) and snatched (line 32)

B. bowed (line 18) and gray (lines 35 and 41)

C. bravest (line 19) and royal (line 34)

D. dame (line 32) and deed (line 40)
Distractor Analysis:

A. “Rose” and “snatched” describe Barbara’s actions but have nothing to do with age.

B. KEY “Bowed” and “gray” suggest a picture of a woman whose hair has grayed and back is bowed over with age.

C. “Bravest” and “royal” indicate her courage and determination, not age.

D. “Dame” and “deed” are older words not often used but do not have anything to do with Barbara’s age.

NASA Gives Public New Internet Tool To Explore The Solar System

PASADENA, Calif. -- NASA is giving the public the power to journey through the solar system using a new interactive Web-based tool.

The "Eyes on the Solar System" interface combines video game technology and NASA data to create an environment for users to ride along with agency spacecraft and explore the cosmos. Screen graphics and information such as planet locations and spacecraft maneuvers use actual space mission data.

"This is the first time the public has been able to see the entire solar system and our missions moving together in real-time," said Jim Green, director of NASA's Planetary Science Division at the agency's Headquarters in Washington. "It demonstrates NASA's continued commitment to share our science with everyone."

The virtual environment uses the Unity game engine to display models of planets, moons, asteroids, comets and spacecraft as they move through our solar system. With keyboard and mouse controls, users cruise through space to explore anything that catches their interest. A free browser plug-in, available at the site, is required to run the Web application.

"You are now free to move about the solar system," said Blaine Baggett, executive manager in the Office of Communication and Education at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) in Pasadena, Calif. "See what NASA's spacecraft see -- and where they are right now -- all without leaving your computer."

Users may experience missions in real-time, and "Eyes on the Solar System" also allows them to travel through time. The tool is populated with NASA data dating back to 1950 and projected to 2050.

The playback rate can be sped up or slowed down. When NASA's Juno spacecraft launched on Aug. 5, 2011, users could look ahead to see the mission's five-year journey to Jupiter in a matter of seconds.

Point of view can be switched from faraway to close-up to right "on board" spacecraft. Dozens of controls on a series of pop-up menus allow users to fully customize what they see, and video and audio tutorials explain how to use the tool's many options. Users may choose from 2-D or 3-D modes, with the latter simply requiring a pair of red-cyan glasses to see.

"By basing our visualization primarily on mission data, this tool will help both NASA and the public better understand complex space science missions," said Kevin Hussey, manager of Visualization Technology Applications and Development at JPL, whose team developed "Eyes on the Solar System."

"Eyes on the Solar System" is in beta release. It has been demonstrated at science conferences, in classrooms and at the 2011 South by Southwest Interactive Conference in Austin, Texas.

Designers are updating "Eyes on the Solar System" to include NASA science missions launching during the coming months, including GRAIL to the moon and the Mars Science Laboratory Curiosity rover.

Lava Tubes

Lava tubes are the most common type of cave formed by lava. Many types of caves can be found throughout the world and contain incredible rock formations. Most lava tubes form from a type of lava called “pahoehoe” flows. The smooth, continuous surfaces of pahoehoe flows are created by lava continuously moving under a hard outer layer. As a stream of lava flows away from a volcano, it cools in the surrounding air. This creates a hard outer crust that thickens as more lava begins to cool. Hot lava continues to flow under this crust. When the eruption stops, the outer crust cools completely, leaving a tube-like cave.

To complete this task, students must determine the most appropriate conclusion for an argumentative paragraph.

Target-Specific Attributes (e.g., accessibility issues):

Stimulus Text:

Read the following passage and then answer the question.

One reason that all schools should teach students about how advertising works is that advertisers understand us better than we understand ourselves. Not all people study psychology, but you can bet that advertisers use the insights of modern psychology to make us want their products. Psychological research shows that humans get more happiness from relationships than from things. Therefore, a large number of ads deliberately confuse products with people or relationships in order to suggest that buying that product will bring us the positive feelings that good relationships offer. For example, one car ad in a magazine showed a happy and attractive young couple hugging next to a new car. The ad said “The best relationships are lasting ones,” which was clearly intended to refer to the car’s reputation for reliability as well as to the happy couple. Another ad for health insurance showed a grandfather playing with his grandkids, with the words “Life’s precious gift.”

Item Stem:

Which of the following is the best conclusion for this paragraph?

Options:

A. Clearly the ad was trying to convince readers that only people with health insurance would be well enough to play with their grandkids.

B. All ads are designed to take advantage of consumers by showing us our deepest desires and greatest fears.

C. Most consumers are smart enough not to be taken advantage of by advertising schemes.

D. Consumers who understand the way advertising works are less likely to fall for the psychological tricks of advertisers.

Distractor Analysis:

A. This option discusses the ad in the previous sentence but is not a conclusion for the paragraph.

B. This option does not logically follow the ideas presented in the paragraph.

C. This option does not logically follow the ideas presented in the paragraph.

Skinks usually have smooth scales like snakes, iguanas have mohawk-like crests running down their backs, and the moloch is covered with spikes from head to tail. snakes (Hint: if it has external eardrums and eyelids it’s a lizard). Geckos can walk up walls. Chameleons not only change color but also have prehensile tails, similar to those of monkeys, that wrap around branches and their eyes can move in different directions.

Item Stem:

What is the best way to revise the highlighted sentence to match the language and style of the paragraph?

Options:

A. Geckos are able to adhere to flush surfaces because setae on their footpads facilitate van der Waals forces between the setae structures and the surface.

B. Geckos are awesome because they have sticky toes that allow them to climb windows like Spiderman.

C. Geckos have the remarkable ability to walk up walls thanks to tiny hair-like structures on their toes that cling to smooth surfaces.

D. Geckos scurry up walls like tiny dancers gliding effortlessly across a stage, their movements as natural as a well-rehearsed ballet.

Distractor Analysis:

Year-round Schools

Year-round schools are a better way to educate students than the traditional nine-month schedule. Students are more likely to remember information over short breaks than they are during a long summer vacation. One study conducted by a group that runs year-round schools showed that their students had higher test scores than students who attended schools with a traditional schedule. Many teachers say they have to spend September and October reviewing material taught the previous year.

Some people argue that students shouldn’t have to go to school any longer than they already do, but with year-round schools students get the same amount of time off, it is just at different times during the year. Short vacations throughout the year give students and teachers much needed breaks and help keep them from burning out. This schedule actually gives families more freedom to plan trips since they aren’t limited to traveling in the summer. In addition, ski resort owners say that a longer break in winter is beneficial because people can spend more time skiing. My friend says that students won’t mind attending school in the summer if they get to relax during their other breaks.
