Calling on the Village: Working With the Family and Support System

This half-day workshop, presented by Akoben, LLC., will teach participants to explore how we can use restorative, trauma-informed and culturally relevant practices to “build up” and “call in” the Village. There are no social institutions more significant in the development and transformation of individuals and society than the family and personal support system. Practicing meaningful and empowering engagement with these systems is the work of all those serious about making positive change in the lives of those they serve.
